Parent Advisory Council

Because parents play an important role in educating Ohio's children, the Ohio Department of Education (ODE) formed the State Superintendent's Parent Advisory Council (PAC) in 2002 to provide a much needed connection among parents, their children and ODE.

Just for Families

This section of the ODE Web site is designed to help parents understand what children are expected to learn in school – and how to help them succeed. The Web pages feature links to other information on ODE's Web site and to helpful information from around the country. The following sites are listed for parental browsing:

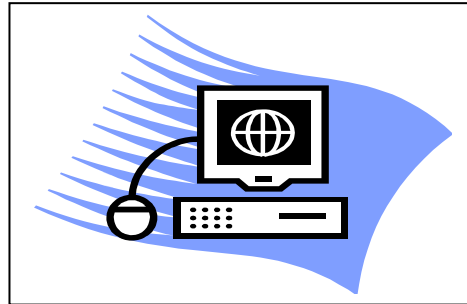

Choosing a School for your Child

Getting Involved with your Child's Learning

Getting Involved with your Child's School

Learners with Special Needs and Talents

Keeping your Child Safe and Healthy

School Performance: Check school and district report cards and ratings, review historical data, and make comparisons between districts of similar make-up.

GED: How to earn an Ohio High School Equivalence Diploma, known as a General Educational Development (GED) diploma, for Ohioans who did not finish high school.

Statewide Testing Web Site: Success Website: This Web site serves as a starting point for tools that can help in understanding Ohio's statewide assessments for the Ohio Achievement Tests (OAT) and for the Ohio Graduation Tests (OGT).
